No. 3:15-cv-02113

COMPLAINT FOR TRADEMARK INFRINGEMENT

(Trademark Infringement, Unfair Competition, Trademark Dilution, and Deceptive Trade Practices)

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Plaintiffs adidas America, Inc., adidas AG, and adidas International Marketing B.V. (collectively, “adidas”) as well as plaintiffs Reebok International Ltd. and Reebok International Limited (collectively, “Reebok” and together with adidas, “Plaintiffs”) state the following for their Complaint against defendant TRB Acquisitions LLC (“TRB”).

I. INTRODUCTION

1. For decades, adidas has manufactured, advertised, marketed, promoted, distributed, and sold footwear and apparel bearing its famous and distinctive Three-Stripe trademark (the “Three-Stripe Mark”). adidas has also manufactured, advertised, marketed, promoted, distributed, and sold footwear and apparel bearing its famous, triangular logo, depicted below, which incorporates the Three-Stripe Mark (the “Badge of Sport Mark”):

2. adidas has made longstanding use of the Three-Stripe Mark and Badge of Sport Mark on athletic footwear and apparel, examples of which are shown below:

3. adidas owns numerous incontestable federal trademark registrations for its Three-Stripe Mark and Badge of Sport Mark (collectively, the “adidas Marks”) for footwear and apparel, and adidas has invested millions of dollars building its brand in connection with the adidas Marks.

4. adidas also owns the Reebok brand. Since 1980, Reebok has manufactured, advertised, marketed, promoted, distributed, and sold footwear and apparel in the United States under its well-known and famous REEBOK trademark (the “REEBOK Mark”). Reebok owns numerous incontestable federal registrations for its REEBOK Mark and has spent millions of dollars promoting and building its brand under the mark.

5. Beginning in 2002, and leveraging the strength of the REEBOK Mark, Reebok has manufactured, advertised, marketed, promoted, distributed, and sold footwear and apparel under its well-known RBK trademark (the “RBK Mark”). Reebok owns multiple federal registrations for its RBK Mark and has invested considerable sums of money in building its brand in connection with the RBK Mark. The RBK Mark and REEBOK Mark are referred to collectively as the “Reebok Marks.”

6. Despite Plaintiffs’ longstanding rights in the adidas Marks and Reebok Marks, TRB recently began offering for sale footwear and apparel bearing confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs’ marks, as shown in the examples below:

7. Many of TRB's Infringing Products (as defined below) bear the letters "RBX" and a three-stripe design that, in combination with the letters "RBX," forms a triangle shape, as depicted below:

8. On information and belief, the Infringing Products are sold alongside Plaintiffs' products in retail channels of trade, such as TJ Maxx, as shown below.

9. The footwear and apparel described above use imitations of the adidas Marks and Reebok Marks in a manner that is likely to cause consumer confusion and deceive the public regarding the source, sponsorship, and/or affiliation of the products.

10. TRB's actions are irreparably harming Plaintiffs' brands and their extremely valuable trademarks. Plaintiffs, therefore, bring this action at law and in equity for trademark infringement and dilution, unfair competition, and unfair business practices arising under the Trademark Act of 1946, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1051 et seq. (2009) ("Lanham Act"); the anti-dilution laws of several states; the fair business practices and unfair and deceptive trade practices acts of several states; and the common law. Among other relief, Plaintiffs ask this Court to:

(a) permanently enjoin TRB from marketing or selling footwear and apparel using or bearing confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' trademarks; (b) award Plaintiffs monetary damages and to treble that award; (c) require TRB to disgorge all of its profits from its sales of the Infringing Products; and (d) award Plaintiffs punitive damages, attorneys' fees, and costs.

37. adidas also has used the adidas Marks in connection with its frequent sponsorship of athletic tournaments and organizations, as well as professional athletes and collegiate sports teams. For example, adidas has had longstanding relationships with the University of California at Los Angeles, the University of Nebraska, the University of Louisville, the University of Michigan, Arizona State University, and the University of Miami. Among many others, adidas sponsors (a) NFL stars Aaron Rodgers, DeMarco Murray, Jimmy Graham, Von Miller, Sammy Watkins, and Robert Griffin III; (b) NBA stars James Harden, Andrew Wiggins, John Wall, Damian Lillard, Tim Duncan, and Derrick Rose; (c) baseball players Josh Harrison, Justin Upton, Kris Bryant, Carlos Gomez, Melvin Upton Jr., and James Shields; (d) professional golfers Sergio Garcia, Dustin Johnson, and Jason Day; and (e) internationally famous soccer players David Beckham and Lionel Messi. For decades, adidas also has sponsored the world-famous Boston Marathon, along with many other events, teams, and individuals.

38. The adidas Marks are nonfunctional, and the public recognizes and understands that the Three-Stripe Mark, which is incorporated in the Badge of Sport Mark, distinguishes and identifies adidas's merchandise. Unsolicited media coverage has referred to "the iconic adidas three stripes" (Brettman, Allan, "World Cup Brings New Shoes, Uniforms from Adidas, Nike,"

The Oregonian, Feb. 17, 2014), adidas's "trademark three-stripe sneakers" (Brettman, Allan, "Adidas lifts 2012 forecast as sales in China soar in Q1," The Oregonian, May 1, 2012), "the adidas stripes" (Brettman, Allan, "A $35 Swoosh of Genius," The Oregonian, June 16, 2011), adidas's "ubiquitous three stripes" (Brettman, Allan, "Going 'All In' Against Nike," The Oregonian, March 15, 2011), the "trademark three-stripe logo" (Pennington, Bill, "Belts That Do More Than Hold Up Pants," New York Times, July 27, 2009), the "iconic three stripes" ("Game Time," Footwear News, June 16, 2008), the "signature three stripes" (Moore, Booth, "Ringing Endorsements; Form Follows Function with Much Olympic Wear, but Fashion and Funding are also at Play," L.A. Times, August 13, 2004), the "famous brand with the three stripes" (Whiting, Sam, "Must Have," San Francisco Chronicle, July 7, 2002), and the "legendary Adidas three stripes" ("Coty Inc.," Brand Strategy, September 27, 1999).

39. For decades, adidas extensively and continuously has used and promoted the adidas Marks in connection with footwear and apparel. In recent years, annual sales of products bearing the adidas Marks have totaled in the billions of dollars globally and in the hundreds of millions of dollars within the United States. The adidas Marks have achieved international fame and tremendous public recognition.

40. Since introducing the adidas Marks, adidas has spent millions of dollars promoting the marks and products bearing the marks. For example, in March 2011, adidas launched an advertising campaign in the United States "featuring Chicago Bulls guard Derrick Rose, rapper B.o.B and pop singer Katy Perry, among others," that "highlights [adidas's] imprint on the worlds of sports, music and fashion," and "show[s] the breadth and depth of the Adidas brand." A March 15, 2011, article from The Oregonian describing this advertising campaign is attached as Exhibit 15. Similarly, adidas recently launched its "Sport 15" advertising campaign, which represents adidas's biggest ad spend in the United States. The campaign features soccer superstar Lionel Messi, Derrick Rose of the Chicago Bulls, and DeMarco Murray of the Philadelphia Eagles. A February 13, 2015, article from AdWeek describing adidas's Sport 15 advertising campaign is attached as Exhibit 16. As a result of adidas's continuous and exclusive use of the adidas Marks in connection with its products, the marks enjoy wide public acceptance and association with adidas, and have come to be recognized widely and favorably by the public as indicators of the origin of adidas's goods.

41. As a result of adidas's extensive use and promotion of the adidas Marks, adidas has built up and now owns extremely valuable goodwill that is symbolized by the marks. The purchasing public has come to associate the adidas Marks with adidas.

B. The Famous REEBOK and RBK Marks

42. Reebok currently is, and for years has been, one of the world's leading manufacturers of footwear, sportswear, and sporting equipment. Representative photographs of footwear and apparel bearing the REEBOK Mark are attached as Exhibit 17.

43. In the early 1980s, Reebok rose to prominence through its focus on the fitness and aerobics trends that were popular at that time. Reebok's success in the fitness field propelled it to the forefront of the broader sports apparel industry. Today, Reebok continues to focus on modern fitness trends to become the number one fitness brand in the world.

44. Reebok first adopted and began using its REEBOK Mark on footwear at least as early as 1965. Reebok expanded its use of the REEBOK Mark to include use on apparel at least as early as 1985. The REEBOK Mark has come to signify the quality and reputation of Reebok footwear, apparel, and sporting equipment.

45. Reebok is the owner of numerous federal trademark registrations for the REEBOK Mark covering footwear and apparel, including Reg. Nos. 1,133,704, 1,390,793, 1,534,383, and 1,736,143. Affidavits have been filed pursuant to Sections 8 and 15 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1058 and 1065, and each of these registrations is incontestable.

Copies of the Certificates of Registration for each of these marks are attached collectively as Exhibit 18.

46. The REEBOK Mark has been well known and famous for many years. Reebok frequently promotes its REEBOK Mark through partnerships with internationally popular superstars, such as Australian model Miranda Kerr and American hip-hop star Kendrick Lamar.

47. Since introducing its REEBOK Mark, Reebok has spent millions of dollars promoting the mark and products bearing the mark. As a result of Reebok's continuous and exclusive use of the REEBOK Mark in connection with its products, the mark enjoys broad public association with Reebok and has come to be recognized widely and favorably by the public as an indicator of the origin of Reebok's goods. Annually, Reebok has sold hundreds of millions of dollars of products bearing the REEBOK Mark. The REEBOK Mark has achieved international fame, widespread public recognition, and tremendous goodwill and commercial value. The purchasing public has come to associate the REEBOK Mark with Reebok.

48. Shortly after the turn of the 21st Century, Reebok decided to leverage the power of the REEBOK Mark in a new and distinctive word mark, RBK (which removed the vowels in "REEBOK"). Since at least 2002, Reebok has manufactured, sold, and promoted footwear and apparel under its well-known RBK Mark. Representative photographs of products bearing the RBK Mark are attached as Exhibit 19.

49. Reebok is the owner of a federal trademark registration, Reg. No. 3,074,802, issued by the PTO on March 28, 2006, for the RBK Mark, covering "footwear; headwear; apparel, namely, shirts" and sports equipment. A copy of the Certificate of Registration for this mark is attached as Exhibit 20.

50. Reebok is the owner of a federal trademark registration, Reg. No. 3,612,991, issued by the PTO on April 28, 2009, for the RBK Mark, as depicted below, covering "leisure and athletic footwear." A copy of the Certificate of Registration for this mark is attached as Exhibit 21.

51. Since adopting the RBK Mark in 2002, Reebok has invested millions of dollars to advertise and promote its RBK Mark. For example, Reebok has promoted its well-known RBK Mark through partnerships with popular music stars.

52. Since 2002, sales of footwear and apparel under the REEBOK and RBK Marks have exceeded $5 billion.

53. As a result of Reebok's longstanding use and extensive marketing, advertising, and promotional efforts over the years, the RBK Mark has come to symbolize the extensive goodwill that Reebok has built in the brand, and the RBK Mark is well known among consumers.

54. Reebok has also used the REEBOK Mark and RBK Mark in connection with its frequent sponsorship of sports tournaments and organizations and professional athletes. For example, Reebok sponsors numerous professional athletes, including NFL defensive end and reigning defensive player of the year J.J. Watt, undefeated UFC bantamweight champion Ronda Rousey, UFC interim featherweight champion Connor McGregor, four-time CrossFit Games Champion Rich Froning, Jr., as well as CrossFit Games Champions Camille Leblanc-Bazinet, Ben Smith, and Katrin Tanja Davidsdottir. Additionally, Reebok has been, since 2011, the title sponsor of the annual Reebok CrossFit Games, which annually crowns the men and women as "The Fittest on Earth," and Reebok is also the exclusive apparel and footwear provider for CrossFit, one of the fastest growing sports in America. Reebok is also the exclusive apparel and footwear sponsor of the Ultimate Fighting Championship ("UFC"), which is the largest mixed martial arts promotion company in the world. And Reebok also sponsors the Reebok Spartan

Race, the largest obstacle race series in the world and Les Mills, the world's largest provider of choreographed group fitness classes at health clubs.

C. TRB's Unlawful Activities

55. In blatant disregard of Plaintiffs' rights, TRB is importing, producing, marketing, distributing, offering for sale, and/or selling in interstate commerce footwear and apparel bearing confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks, including the examples depicted below and in the attached Exhibit 22 (the "Infringing Products"):

56. Many of TRB's Infringing Products bear the letters "RBX" and a three-stripe design that, in combination with the letters "RBX," forms a triangle shape, as depicted below (the "Infringing Logo"):

57. On information and belief, TRB's Infringing Products are sold next to Plaintiffs' products in retail channels of trade, such as TJ Maxx, as shown below.

58. On information and belief, TRB had knowledge of and was familiar with Plaintiffs' marks when it began importing, designing, manufacturing, sourcing, distributing, marketing, promoting, offering for sale, and/or selling the Infringing Products. On further information and belief, TRB intentionally adopted and used confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks knowing that they would mislead and deceive consumers into believing that the footwear and apparel was produced, authorized, or licensed by Plaintiffs, or that the footwear and apparel originated from Plaintiffs.

59. The Infringing Products imported, designed, manufactured, sourced, distributed, marketed, promoted, offered for sale, and/or sold by TRB are not manufactured by Plaintiffs. Nor is TRB associated, affiliated, or connected with Plaintiffs, or licensed, authorized, sponsored, endorsed, or approved by Plaintiffs in any way.

60. adidas used the adidas Marks extensively and continuously before TRB began using the Infringing Logo and importing, designing, manufacturing, sourcing, distributing, marketing, promoting, offering for sale, and/or selling the Infringing Products.

61. Reebok used the Reebok Marks extensively and continuously before TRB began using the Infringing Logo and importing, designing, manufacturing, sourcing, distributing, marketing, promoting, offering for sale, and/or selling the Infringing Products.

62. The Infringing Products are similar to, and compete with, footwear and apparel sold by Plaintiffs, and the parties' respective footwear and apparel are sold through overlapping channels of trade.

63. Upon information and belief, TRB's use of the Infringing Logo and other confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks is creating actual confusion in the marketplace, including several online retailers advertising TRB's Infringing Products as "New Reebok RBX" products. Attached as Exhibit 23 are true and correct examples of such actual confusion occurring in the marketplace.

64. TRB's use of the Infringing Logo and other confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks is likely to further deceive, confuse, and mislead actual and prospective purchasers into believing that the footwear and apparel sold by TRB is manufactured by, authorized by, or in some manner associated with Plaintiffs, which it is not.

65. The likelihood of confusion, mistake, and deception engendered by TRB's infringement of Plaintiffs' marks is causing irreparable harm to the goodwill symbolized by the marks and the reputation for quality that they embody.

66. TRB's activities are likely to cause confusion before, during, and after the time of purchase because purchasers, prospective purchasers, and others viewing TRB's Infringing Products at the point of sale or on a wearer are likely—due to TRB's use of confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks—to mistakenly attribute the footwear and apparel to Plaintiffs. This attribution is particularly damaging with respect to those people who perceive a defect or lack of quality in the Infringing Products. By causing a likelihood of confusion, mistake, and deception, TRB is inflicting irreparable harm on the goodwill symbolized by Plaintiffs' marks and the reputation for quality that they embody.

67. On information and belief, TRB continues to use the Infringing Logo and other confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks in connection with the sale of footwear and apparel that directly compete with the footwear and apparel offered by Plaintiffs. TRB began selling the Infringing Products well after adidas had established protectable rights in the adidas Marks, well after Reebok had established protectable rights in the Reebok Marks, and well after these marks had become famous.

68. On further information and belief, TRB knowingly, willfully, intentionally, and maliciously adopted and used confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Federal Trademark Infringement)

69. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

70. TRB's use of confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks is likely to cause confusion, deception, and mistake by creating the false and misleading impression that TRB's goods are manufactured or distributed by Plaintiffs, or are associated or connected with Plaintiffs, or have the sponsorship, endorsement, or approval of Plaintiffs.

71. TRB has used marks confusingly similar to Plaintiffs' federally registered marks in violation of 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114 and 1125(a). TRB's activities have caused and, unless enjoined by this Court, will continue to cause a likelihood of confusion and deception of members of the trade and public, and, additionally, injury to Plaintiffs' goodwill and reputation as symbolized by Plaintiffs' marks, for which Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law.

72. TRB's actions demonstrate an intentional, willful, and malicious intent to trade on the goodwill associated with Plaintiffs' marks to Plaintiffs' great and irreparable harm.

73. TRB caused and is likely to continue causing substantial injury to the public, to adidas, and to Reebok, and Plaintiffs are entitled to injunctive relief and to recover TRB's profits, actual damages, enhanced profits and damages, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1114, 1116, and 1117.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Federal Unfair Competition)

74. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

75. TRB's use of confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks has caused and is likely to cause confusion, deception, and mistake by creating the false and misleading impression that TRB's goods are manufactured or distributed by Plaintiffs, or are affiliated, connected, or associated with Plaintiffs, or have the sponsorship, endorsement, or approval of Plaintiffs.

76. TRB has made false representations, false descriptions, and false designations of its goods in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1125(a). TRB's activities have caused and, unless enjoined by this Court, will continue to cause a likelihood of confusion and deception of members of the trade and public, and, additionally, injury to Plaintiffs' goodwill and reputation as symbolized by Plaintiffs' marks, for which Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law.

77. TRB's actions demonstrate an intentional, willful, and malicious intent to trade on the goodwill associated with Plaintiffs' marks to the great and irreparable injury of Plaintiffs.

78. TRB's conduct has caused, and is likely to continue causing, substantial injury to the public, to adidas, and to Reebok. Plaintiffs are entitled to injunctive relief and to recover TRB's profits, actual damages, enhanced profits and damages, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1125(a), 1116, and 1117.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Federal Trademark Dilution of the Three-Stripe Mark and REEBOK Mark)

79. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

80. For decades, adidas and Reebok, respectively, have exclusively and continuously promoted and used their registered Three-Stripe Mark and REEBOK Mark, both in the United States and throughout the world. These marks became famous and well-known symbols of Plaintiffs and their products well before TRB offered for sale the Infringing Products.

81. TRB is making use in commerce of marks that dilute and are likely to dilute the distinctiveness of adidas's Three-Stripe Mark and Reebok's REEBOK Mark by eroding the public's exclusive identification of these famous marks with adidas and Reebok, tarnishing and degrading the positive associations and prestigious connotations of the marks, and otherwise lessening the capacity of the marks to identify and distinguish Plaintiffs' goods.

82. TRB's actions demonstrate an intentional, willful, and malicious intent to trade on the goodwill associated with Plaintiffs' marks or to cause dilution of the marks to the great and irreparable injury of Plaintiffs.

83. TRB has caused and will continue to cause irreparable injury to adidas's and Reebok's goodwill and business reputations, and dilution of the distinctiveness and value of adidas's and Reebok's famous and distinctive Three-Stripe Mark and REEBOK Mark in violation of 15 U.S.C. § 1125(c). Plaintiffs therefore are entitled to injunctive relief and to TRB's profits, actual damages, enhanced profits and damages, and reasonable attorneys' fees under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1125(c), 1116, and 1117.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices)

84. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

85. TRB has been and is passing off its goods as those of Plaintiffs, causing a likelihood of confusion or misunderstanding as to the source, sponsorship, or approval of TRB's goods, causing a likelihood of confusion as to TRB's affiliation, connection, or association with Plaintiffs, and otherwise damaging the public.

86. TRB's conduct constitutes unfair and deceptive acts or practices in the course of a business, trade, or commerce in violation of the unfair and deceptive trade practices statutes of several states, including California CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200, et seq. (West 2009); Colorado, COLO. REV. STAT. ANN. §§ 6-1-101 to 6-1-115 (West 2009); Delaware, DEL. CODE ANN. tit. 6, §§ 2531 to 2536 (2009); Georgia, GA. CODE ANN. §§ 10-1-370 to 10-1-375 (2009); Hawaii, HAW. REV. STAT. §§ 481A-1 to 481A-5 (2009); Illinois, ILL. COMP. STAT. ANN. ch. 815, 510/1 to 510/7 (2009); Maine, ME. REV. STAT. ANN. tit. 10, §§ 1211 to 1216 (West 2009); Minnesota, MINN. STAT. ANN. § 325D.43 to .48 (West 2009); Nebraska, NEB. REV. STAT. §§ 87-301 to 87-306 (2009); New Mexico, N.M. STAT. ANN. §§ 57-12-1 to 57-12-22 (Michie 2009); New York, N.Y. GEN. BUS. Law § 349 (McKinney 2009); Ohio, OHIO REV. CODE ANN. §§ 4165.01 to 4165.04 (Baldwin 2009); and Oklahoma, OKLA. STAT. ANN. tit. 78, §§ 51 to 55 (West 2009).

87. TRB's unauthorized use of confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks has caused and is likely to cause substantial injury to the public, to adidas, and to Reebok. Plaintiffs, therefore, are entitled to injunctive relief and to recover damages and, if appropriate, punitive damages, costs, and reasonable attorneys' fees.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Common Law Trademark Infringement and Unfair Competition)

88. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

89. TRB's acts constitute common law trademark infringement and unfair competition, and have created and will continue to create, unless restrained by this Court, a likelihood of confusion to the irreparable injury of Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs have no adequate remedy at law for this injury.

90. On information and belief, TRB acted with full knowledge of Plaintiffs' use of, and statutory and common law rights to, Plaintiffs' marks and without regard to the likelihood of confusion of the public created by TRB's activities.

91. TRB's actions demonstrate an intentional, willful, and malicious intent to trade on the goodwill associated with Plaintiffs' marks to the great and irreparable injury of Plaintiffs.

92. As a result of TRB's acts, Plaintiffs have been damaged in an amount not yet determined or ascertainable. At a minimum, however, Plaintiffs are entitled to injunctive relief, to an accounting of TRB's profits, damages, and costs. Further, in light of the deliberate and malicious use of confusingly similar imitations of Plaintiffs' marks, and the need to deter TRB from engaging in similar conduct in the future, Plaintiffs additionally are entitled to punitive damages.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(State Trademark Dilution and Injury to Business Reputation)

93. Plaintiffs repeat and incorporate by reference the allegations in the preceding paragraphs.

94. Plaintiffs have extensively and continuously promoted and used the Three-Stripe Mark and the REEBOK Mark throughout the United States, and these marks became distinctive, famous, and well-known symbols of Plaintiffs' goods well before TRB began offering for sale the products complained of in this Complaint.

95. TRB's conduct dilutes and is likely to dilute the distinctiveness of adidas's Three-Stripe Mark and Reebok's REEBOK Mark by eroding the public's exclusive identification of these marks with Plaintiffs, and tarnishing and degrading the positive associations and prestigious connotations of the marks, and otherwise lessening the capacity of the marks to identify and distinguish Plaintiffs' goods.

96. TRB is causing and will continue to cause irreparable injury to Plaintiffs' goodwill and business reputations and dilution of the distinctiveness and value of Plaintiffs' famous and distinctive marks in violation of the Oregon anti-dilution statute, O.R.S. § 647.107 (2009), as well as the anti-dilution laws of several other states, including Alabama, ALA. CODE § 8-12-17 (2009); Alaska, ALASKA STAT. § 45.50.180 (Michie 2009); Arizona, ARIZ. REV. STAT. ANN. § 44-1448.01 (West 2009); Arkansas, ARK. CODE ANN. § 4-71-213 (2009); California, CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 14247 (West 2009); Connecticut, CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 35-11i(c) (West 2009); Delaware, DEL. CODE ANN. tit. 6, § 3313 (2009); Florida, FLA. STAT. ANN. § 495.151 (West 2007); Georgia, GA. CODE ANN. § 10-1-451 (2009); Hawaii, HAW. REV. STAT. ANN. § 482-32 (Michie 2009); Idaho, IDAHO CODE § 48-513 (Michie 2009); Illinois, 765 ILL. COMP. STAT. ANN. 1036/65 (2009); Iowa, IOWA CODE ANN. § 548.113 (West 2009); Indiana, IN. CODE 24-2-13.5 (West 2009); Kansas, KAN. STAT. ANN. § 81-214 (2009); Louisiana, LA. REV. STAT. ANN. § 51:223.1 (West 2009); Maine, ME. REV. STAT. ANN. tit. 10, § 1530 (West 2000); Massachusetts, MASS. GEN. LAWS. ANN. ch. 110H, § 13 (West 2009); Minnesota, MINN. STAT. ANN. § 333.285 (West 2009); Mississippi, MISS. CODE. ANN. § 75-25-25 (2009); Missouri, MO. ANN. STAT. § 417.061(1) (West 2009); Montana, MONT. CODE ANN. § 30-13-334 (2009); Nebraska, NEB. REV. STAT. ANN. § 87-140 (Michie 2009); Nevada, NEV. REV. STAT. 600.435 (2007); New Hampshire, N.H. REV. STAT. ANN. § 350-A:12 (2009); New Jersey, N.J. STAT. ANN. 56:3-13.20 (West 2009); New Mexico, N.M. STAT. ANN. § 57-3B-15 (Michie 2009); New York, N.Y. GEN. BUS. Law § 360-l (2009); Pennsylvania, 54 PA. CONS. STAT. ANN. § 1124 (West 2009); Rhode Island, R.I. GEN. LAWS § 6-2-12 (2009); South Carolina, S. C. CODE ANN. § 39-15-1165 (2009); Tennessee, TENN. CODE ANN. § 47-25-513 (2009); Texas, TEX. BUS. & COM. CODE ANN. § 16.29 (Vernon 2009); Utah, UT. CODE ANN. § 70-3a-403 (2009);

Washington, WASH. REV. CODE ANN. § 19.77.160 (West 2009); West Virginia, W.V. STAT. ANN. 47-2-13 (Michie 2009); and Wyoming, WYO. STAT. ANN. § 40-1-115 (Michie 2009).

97. Plaintiffs, therefore, are entitled to injunctive relief, damages, and costs, as well as, if appropriate, enhanced damages, punitive damages, and reasonable attorneys' fees.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray that:

1. TRB and all of its agents, officers, employees, representatives, successors, assigns, attorneys, and all other persons acting for, with, by through or under authority from TRB, or in concert or participation with TRB, and each of them, be enjoined from:

- h. using any trademark, name, logo, design, or source designation of any kind on or in connection with TRB's goods that dilutes or is likely to dilute the distinctiveness of Plaintiffs' trademarks, trade dresses, names, or logos;

9. Plaintiffs be awarded prejudgment and post-judgment interest on all monetary awards; and

10. Plaintiffs have such other and further relief as the Court may deem just.
